

Economics, Ecology and Values Where the World and India Meet

Partha Sengupta
Vice President, Raw Materials,
Tata Steel

- Many economists see continual economic growth as essential in providing more resources to more people.
- Most ecologists view continual growth as impossible in the long-run due to non-renewable resources and limited ecological waste-disposal capabilities.

“Ideas that can change the world”

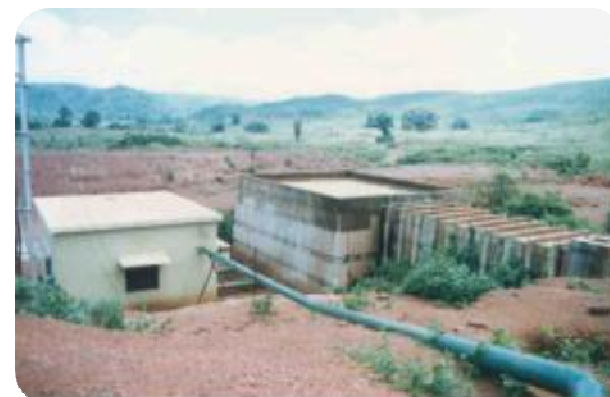

Jamshetji Tata, Founder
(1839-1904)

In a free enterprise, the community is not just another stakeholder in the business but in fact a very purpose of it.

I am willing to undertake the cutting down and replanting of trees on Government allotting to me certain areas of forests.....
